

Personally I am completely sick of local radio...the FCC lately has really been on a rampage lately and I personally feel violated that everything I listen to anymore is completely up to whatever the FCC feels is in its "best interests". I have never voted before but finally this election year I will be heard. This is America and as much as most politicians think they can push their personal and religious beliefs onto people...i have news they cant. I feel this country under its current legislation has censored and controlled over the line. I am in America right? I choose right? Remember that. If i dont want XM traffic and weather I choose not to listen and if enough people dont want it, it will dissapear on its own.
